Some children find it challenging to navigate their way in social situations. They need direct teaching, coaching, and practice to learn the fundamental building blocks of social success.

Camp Compass, established in 1999 by Nancy Clements, is a four half-day, activity-based experience to promote social learning, appropriate for children ages 6-12. It brings together explicit approaches to social learning based on the Michelle Garcia Winner Social Thinking® and ILaugh model. Your child will experience concrete, visually-based strategies to help promote social success. Learning is facilitated through hands-on, theme-based, dynamic experiences and activities. The coach to student ratio is generally 1:2 and students are grouped according to age and social communication skill level.

Camp Compass capitalizes on students’ strengths and offers a positive and supportive environment designed to maximize their social potential.

Activities are designed to teach the following:

- Initiating communication
- Reciprocal interactions
- Understanding the thoughts and feelings of others
- Communication repair strategies
- Self-regulation skills
- Being a positive team player
- Having fun with peers
